Sustaining the Humanization of Nursing Present and Future

Caring Science Scholars Dr. Brousseau, President of the Canadian Nurses Association and Professor at the University of Quebec in Outaouais and Dr. Giovannoni, forensic nurse in private practice, Honolulu, Hawaii and Adjunct Faculty UMass Global share the efficacy of integrating Caring Science, the 10 Caritas Processes® into their personal sphere and professionally.

There is global concern that nurses leave the bedside because of stress, work violence, and discrimination in the healthcare environment. What is the solution to this nursing crisis? These two scholars will engage the participants in a dialogue on the relevance of embodying Caritas for self care during challenging times and the efficacy of integrating unitary caring science to sustain the humanization of the nursing profession in the present and future. You can engage in a lively discourse by sharing your personal experiences and wisdom.
