We are...

the original source and home of the professional practice model of caring originated by the visionary nurse scholar, Dr. Jean Watson and her theory of human caring science.

Watson Caring
Science Institute

ABOUT

Established August 29, 2007, Watson Caring Science Institute (WCSI) is an international non-profit 501C(3) organization that advances the unitary philosophies, theories and practices of Caring Science, developed by Dr. Jean Watson, Ph.D., RN, AHN-BC, FAAN, LL (AAN). Watson's Caring Science is a trans-disciplinary approach that incorporates the art and science of nursing and includes concepts from the fields of philosophy, ethics, ecology and mind-body-spirit medicine.

Our work has proven to engage and retain nursing staff and dramatically improve patient's perception of care. Focusing on research, education, practice, legacy and leadership, WCSI deepens the development and understanding of Caring Science and Caritas Practices. As a result, we intentionally transform the patient/family experiences of caring and healing in schools, hospitals, the wider community and our planet.

The Institute has prepared nurses, healthcare workers, and health leaders worldwide to translate theory into authentic practice. Our Caritas Coaches® & Caritas Leaders® lead more than 289,000 licensed nurses who care for over 950,000 patients per year in hospitals alone.

institutional darkness, and in this model we get to return to the light of our humanity.

ABOUT

Watson Caring
Science Institute

What is Watson's Caring Science?

Watson's Caring Science expands and deepens the conventional model of medical science, offering a unitary world view of connectedness of all. Watson's Caring Science theory has codified the universals of human caring, transcending language, religion, and borders. Those universals are identified and manifested through the 10 Caritas Processes®.

We're here for nurses...

First and foremost, Caring Science incorporates the ethic of caring which expands the medical technical model of science. This theory was developed by a nurse, for nurses and all caring professionals; and while our first responsibility is to uphold and uplift the discipline and profession of nursing, it goes beyond nursing. Nurses and human caring are critically important to the health and healing for humanity and the planet. We do this because as our Fonder Jean Watson reminds us "nursing in the paradigm exemplar of human caring, the most mature healing profession in the world."

Our Purpose

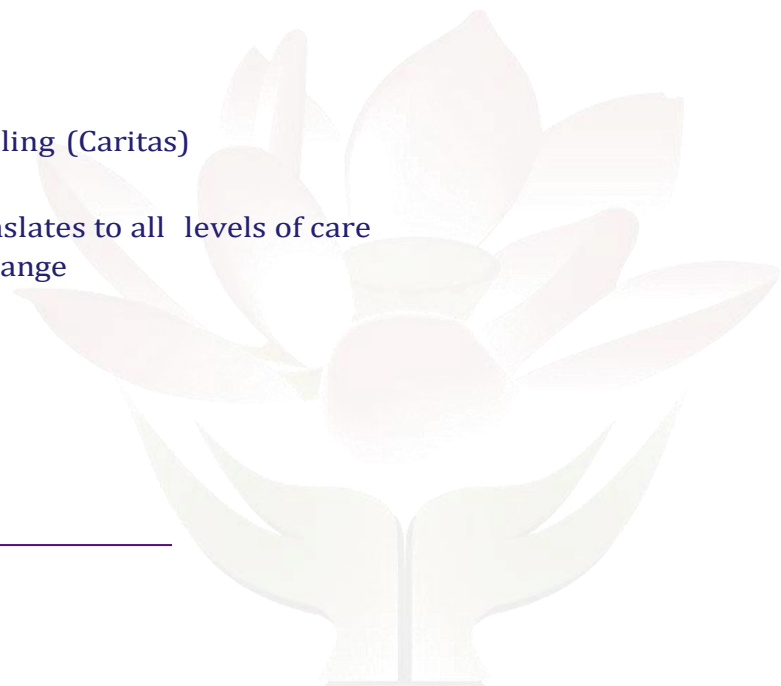

Watson Caring Science Institute's purpose is to affirm and sustain the art and science of human caring in nursing, thereby elevating nursing into leadership in transforming healthcare.

Our Mission

Watson Caring Science Institute's mission is to inform, inspire and support nurses, through education, practice, research and leadership. The Institute's hallmark is its academic and clinical professional programs, which are focused on deep individual and cultural systems change.

Our Values

- Love is foundational to caring and healing (Caritas)
- Preserving human dignity
- Caring theory is ever evolving, and translates to all levels of care
- Intentionally manifest constructive change
- Invite in, by attraction
